ESSENTIAL PEDIATRI

Urological conditions comprise a significant fraction of general pediatric practice. However, published studies have documented wide variation in management of many pediatric urological conditions by pediatricians and specialists alike, as well as concerning gaps between published clinical guidelines and common clinical practice for many of these conditions (e.g. undescended testis). This activity will serve as intensive review and update for pediatricians, family physicians, nurse practitioners, physician assistants, and other clinicians who treat children with urological conditions. The activity will cover a wide range of topics and will focus on practical, hands-on approaches to managing urological conditions within a busy pediatric practice. Nationally recognized experts from the Department of Urology at Children's Hospital Boston, as well as faculty from many of the Hospital's other world-class programs, will present evidence-based, state-of-the-art interactive presentations that will leave you with all of your questions answered. Emphasis will be placed on initial assessment and treatment of pediatric urological diseases, "tricks of the trade", and when to refer. The areas that will be covered include prenatal hydronephrosis, vesicoureteral reflux, urinary tract infection, dysfunctional elimination, circumcision-related issues, undescended testes, hypospadias, hernia/hydrocele and varicocele, and pediatric uro-radiology. After completing this course, you will greatly enhance your knowledge and confidence in treating your patients, which will result in improved care and outcomes.

AFTER TAKING THIS COURSE, PARTICIPANTS WILL BE ABLE TO:

- manage a wide range of urological conditions in children.
- understand the current literature and evidence base for pediatric urological conditions.
- recognize when a patient can be safely managed in the general pediatric clinic, and when subspecialty referral is appropriate.

The Harvard Medical School is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

The Harvard Medical School designates this live activity for a maximum of 13.25 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should claim only credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

Who Should Attend: pediatric surgeons, pediatricians, nurse practitioners, family practitioners, surgery-urological, and physician assistants in pediatrics.
